Personalized Diagnostics and Therapeutics for Head and Neck Surgery

Message from the Guest Editor

In recent years, advances in computer-assisted surgery have made it increasingly possible to offer personalized reconstructions to patients undergoing head and neck surgery. Reconstructions with patient-specific implants and surgical templates must be mentioned specifically in this context. In this respect, further developments should now focus on decreasing the workflow and, above all, increasing user friendliness and the faster availability of individual solutions. However, new knowledge in the field of personalized diagnostics with regard to potential prognostic factors and personalized (non-)surgical therapy approaches for head and neck oncology is an exciting and forward-looking topic of research. With this Special Issue, authors are invited to present their most recent developments and findings in personalized diagnostics and therapy in the field of head and neck surgery.
