Personalized Medicine in Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery: Updates and Challenges

Message from the Guest Editor

We are pleased to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue of the Journal of Personalized Medicine, dedicated to outlining advancements in “Personalized Medicine in Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery: Updates and Challenges”. This Special Issue aims to explore the integration of personalized approaches in ENT research, focusing on areas like obstructive sleep apnea (OSA), rhinology, voice disorders, oncology, head and neck surgery, and facial palsy. With the rise in personalized treatments, understanding and managing these conditions have evolved dramatically. We encourage the submission of cutting-edge research that provides insights into precision diagnostics, individualized therapies, and outcome-driven approaches in ENT, focusing on the unique challenges and innovations within these subfields. We are particularly interested in papers that delve into novel biomarkers, personalized surgical techniques, tailored therapeutic regimens, and patient-specific rehabilitation strategies. We look forward to your contributions, which will shape the future of personalized medicine in ENT.
