Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

The purpose of the Special Issue of JRFM is to provide new perspectives, models, and applications in econometrics. Summaries of relatively recent econometric techniques, useful for practitioners, are also welcome. Theoretical and empirical contributions are also welcome, provided there is a novel element or a review of novel techniques that have been published in major journals but whose application is still limited in practice.

You are more than welcome to send your contribution for consideration.
