Message from the Collection Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Topical Collection collects high-quality papers (original research articles or comprehensive review papers) in any research fields associated with Risk and Financial Management.

Highly experienced practitioners from various fields within the journal's scope are welcome to contribute papers, highlighting the latest developments in their research area, or a detailed summary of their own work to date.

The papers would be published, free of charge, in open access after peer review.

Potential topics include, but are not limited to risk, financial management, business, empirical finance, financial econometrics, financial mathematics, financial statistics, financial engineering, climate science, fossil fuels, renewable and sustainable energy, global warming, and climate science.
