Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The Banking and Finance section welcomes the submission of high-quality papers examining the governance, performance, and stability of banking institutions and financial firms, including their contributions to systemic risk in the markets in which they operate. Studies focusing on the contributions of regulation and supervision to well-functioning banking and financial markets are especially encouraged. The Banking and Finance section is open to publishing new and challenging studies focusing on a single country or a group of countries. Theoretical and empirical papers, as well as policy-oriented research papers, will be considered.
