Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

JRFM is currently accepting submissions for a Special Issue on “Empirical Asset Pricing”, with special emphasis on emerging markets and frontier markets.

The main goal of this Special Issue of JRFM is to encourage comparative studies that deepen our knowledge of empirical asset pricing by focusing on emerging and frontier markets. Over the past two decades, emerging economies assumed a significant role in global markets. This makes a Special Issue of comparative studies with a focus on emerging and frontier markets timely and important. We seek papers that shed light on new knowledge to enrich the literature on empirical asset pricing. We invite submissions in all areas of empirical asset pricing. Priority will be given to empirical papers related to emerging and frontier markets.
