

Special Issue

Advances in Macroeconomics and Financial Markets

Message from the Guest Editors

The primary focus of this Special Issue, “Advances in Macroeconomics and Financial Markets”, in the Journal of Risk and Financial Management (JRFM) is on theoretical and empirical studies that will add to the growing literature on macroeconomics and financial markets. The aim of this Special Issue is to contribute to the advances in the theoretical and empirical understanding of macroeconomics and financial markets, and provide suggestions with practical significance for related stakeholders, policy makers and the public. We welcome papers from across all of the major fields of macroeconomics research and financial market research, placing emphasis on high-quality analytical, theoretical and empirical contributions in the following major areas: economic growth, economic fluctuations, the effects of monetary and fiscal policies, the macroeconomics of income inequality, macroeconomic forecasting, policy uncertainty, climate finance, energy finance, securities trading and pricing, trading mechanisms, order placement strategies, financial intermediation, and trading behaviors.
