

Special Issue

Designing Digital Economies— Pathways for Emerging Market Development

Message from the Guest Editors

This special volume is dedicated to RMIT Vietnam Digital3 Conference. In this Special Issue on “digital economies”, we invite novel research on blockchain, artificial intelligence (AI), virtual/augmented reality (VR/AR), and the Internet of Things (IoT). We welcome submissions from scholars and practitioners from diverse settings and contexts, and encourage papers that explore the role of cross-regional cooperation, knowledge-sharing, and digital and innovation economics in emerging markets. We welcome both theoretical and/or empirical studies on themes like (but not limited to) digital finance, innovations in the digital economy, digital change management, digital governance and law, digital business, sustainability in a digital world, and other similar topics, crypto-economics, generative AI, fintech, Web3, smart cities and digital transformation, digital identity and privacy, cybersecurity and digital trust, digital health and wellbeing, and digital innovation and entrepreneurship.
