

Special Issue

Advances in Corporate Finance and Investments

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue aims at inspiring and motivating conceptual, empirical, theoretical, methodological, and case study research in various branches of finance with a focus on new perspectives and emerging challenges in corporate finance and investments. The topics of the Special Issue cover, but are not limited to:

- Firm valuation, capital structure, cost of capital, loan contracting, payout policies, working capital management, and corporate risk management.
- IPO and private equity, ownership structure, mergers and acquisitions, joint venture, and strategic alliance.
- Corporate governance, executive compensation, firm resilience, and labor market.
- International financial management, globalization investment, and supply chain risk.
- Institutional investors, shareholder engagement and activism, CSR, and social capital.
- Impact investing, technological and demographic disruption, ESG, and sustainable finance.
- Financial innovation, big data investment, machine-learning-based forecasting, and capital budgeting.

Studies that apply asset pricing and market microstructure analysis into corporate finance issues are also welcome.
