

Special Issue

Household Finance II

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue focuses on the broad topic of “Household Finance” and includes all areas related to such, including but not limited to novel research on: household portfolio allocation and debt decisions; insurance choices; pensions and superannuation; financial literacy; and home ownership and investment. Both theoretical and empirical studies are welcomed, as is the use of novel mathematical/statistical/econometric/machine-learning techniques to these broad topic areas. Policy-relevant research will be especially welcomed, especially in light of the COVID-19 pandemic.
