Message from the Guest Editors

We invite you to delve into the relationship between contemporary forms of landscape valuation and governance and current social media. Possible lines of research include the current connections of social media with the following topics:

- The impact of social media and the virtual in general in the places we inhabit;
- User-Generated Content (UGC) or online surveys and the social perception of space;
- Big data, social media, and spatial research: implications of the meshing of qualitative and quantitative research methods;
- New methods for urban management and professional practices;
- Participatory scenarios and land planning based on online technologies;
- Digital twins, deep mapping, and the virtual datafication of physical spaces: their uses and impact;
- Traditional ecological knowledge (TEK) and governance decentralization;
- Multi-scale processes and social–ecological resilience;
- Spatio-temporal patterns for the maintenance of the living landscape;
- Sustainable governance and rural landscape stewardship;
- Inclusive and participatory land governance: a cross-country comparison.
