

Special Issue

The Impact of Population Transition on Land Value and Planning in Rural Areas

Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue is to collect papers (original research articles and review papers) that provide insights into rural man–land relationships, rural land value, rural land use planning, and rural land system reform. This Special Issue will welcome manuscripts that link the following themes:

- Rural man–land relationships;
- Rural–urban migration and rural population transition;
- The economic, social, and ecological value of rural land and its multifunctional utilization;
- The urban citizenship of migrant workers and rural land circulation;
- Rural land system reform;
- Rural planning and sustainable land governance.

We look forward to receiving your original research articles and reviews.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Land is the only open access journal covering all aspects of land science, and it is a pioneering platform for publishing on land system science. Our editorial board is comprised of eminent scholars. We publish high quality research on societally relevant, emerging and innovative topics and results in land system research. It is now one of the top land journals with a significant impact factor, and has a goal to become the best journal in land in the coming years. I strongly recommend Land for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
