

Special Issue

Sustainable Development of the Territory and Use of Natural and Cultural Resources to Improve the Quality of Life of Residents, 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

Following the success of the Special Issue "Sustainable Development of the Territory and Use of Natural and Cultural Resources to Improve the Quality of Life of Residents", we are happy to announce the opening of a second volume. The scope of this Special Issue is broad and manuscripts that present conceptual and/or empirical works from all areas of knowledge on the sustainable use of the natural and cultural resources of territories for improvements in the quality of life of the residents are welcome. We welcome both original research articles that offer interesting empirical insights and novel theoretical contributions, as well as review articles. Specifically, the following topics are welcome:

- Topics related to the sustainable territory and the sustainable use of natural and cultural resources.
- Natural resources, environment and sustainability.
- Actions to enhance the value of natural and cultural resources allowing the development of territories.

We look forward to receiving your original research articles and reviews.
