

Special Issue

Post-fire Impacts and Landscape Management in Forest Ecosystems

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to compile research (original and literature reviews) on a variety of topics related to post-fire impacts and management, including but not limited to:

- Fire impacts on biodiversity and on species of conservation concerns;
- Pest control and sprawl of invasive species;
- Management actions to increase forest resistance and resilience;
- Application of time- and cost-effective tools to monitor post-fire forest recovery;
- Challenges of landscape management at the urban-forest interface;

Proposed titles and abstracts (200–300 words) can be submitted to the guest editors if the prospective authors would like feedback before preparing their manuscripts. For quality research articles or extensive review papers with significant relevance to the Special Issue, submission fees may be waived or partially waived.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Land is the only open access journal covering all aspects of land science, and it is a pioneering platform for publishing on land system science. Our editorial board is comprised of eminent scholars. We publish high quality research on societally relevant, emerging and innovative topics and results in land system research. It is now one of the top land journals with a significant impact factor, and has a goal to become the best journal in land in the coming years. I strongly recommend Land for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
