

Special Issue

The Forming of Cultural Landscapes and Urbanscapes

Message from the Guest Editors

For this Special Issue, we seek case studies dealing with the understanding of how cultural landscapes and urbanscapes developed in prehistory and historical times. Original research papers, reviews are welcome, which address theoretical and methodological questions in relation to landscape history, the development of early settlement networks, the presence and importance of anthropogenic features in historical landscapes. The scope of the Special Issue implies a wide range of topics, including the studies applying methods of both natural sciences and humanities.
