

Special Issue

Campus of the University: Spatial Evolution, Societal Response, and Design Innovation

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to gather cutting-edge research on the spatial evolution, functional transformation, technological adaptation, and heritage protection of university campuses. Contributions are welcome from scholars in architecture, planning, geography, education, and environmental studies, offering a systematic and comparative academic overview of campus development across regions. Suggested areas of interest include, but are not limited to, the below topics. 1. Urban–Campus Relationships; 2. Campus Planning and Architectural History; 3. Spatial Forms and Architectural Systems; 4. Sustainability and Green Transition; 5. Digitalization and Learning Model Transformation; 6. Cultural Perspectives and Mental Well-being. Submissions focusing on regional, urban, ecological, and landscape-scale issues related to campus environments are encouraged to submit to Land, while contributions emphasizing architectural design, spatial typology, and building-scale innovation should be directed to Buildings.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Land is the only open access journal covering all aspects of land science, and it is a pioneering platform for publishing on land system science. Our editorial board is comprised of eminent scholars. We publish high quality research on societally relevant, emerging and innovative topics and results in land system research. It is now one of the top land journals with a significant impact factor, and has a goal to become the best journal in land in the coming years. I strongly recommend Land for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
