Climate Adaptation and Recovery Strategies: Reimagining Governance in Urban Regions

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, “Climate Adaptation and Recovery Strategies: Reimagining Governance in Urban Regions”, of the journal Land welcomes contributions that deal with sustainable approaches to landscapes, covering a range of scales (e.g., urban, regional, etc) and landscape typologies. We welcome submissions, by both academics and practitioners, that deal with climate adaptation approaches and strategies, looking at environmental aspects and reimagining governance frameworks in cities and in peri-urban, rural, or regional areas.

The aim of this Special Issue is to gather contributions that link the following themes:

- The climate crisis and the landscape;
- Spatial strategies for climate adaptation;
- Landscape design;
- The landscape and governance;
- Landscape policy and environmental stability;
- Urban and regional design addressing the climate emergency;
- Climate resilience and the landscape;
- Indigenous ecological knowledge;
- Landscape governance frameworks.

We look forward to receiving your original research articles and reviews.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Land is the only open access journal covering all aspects of land science, and it is a pioneering platform for publishing on land system science. Our editorial board is comprised of eminent scholars. We publish high quality research on societally relevant, emerging and innovative topics and results in land system research. It is now one of the top land journals with a significant Impact Factor, and has a goal to become the best journal in land in the coming years.
