Special Issue

We Are What We Say: Accent-Inclusive Sociopragmatic Research

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to invite you to submit a manuscript for a Special Issue of Languages titled "Bilingual Acquisition of Pragmatic Inferences". This Special Issue will bring together research that explores the acquisition of pragmatic inferences in child and adult bilinguals. We welcome contributions from multiple experimental perspectives, including, but not limited to corpus studies, qualitative and quantitative works. The goal is this issue is twofold: Theoretically, it aims to shed new light on our knowledge of pragmatic theories; empirically, it aims to broaden the scope of pragmatic inferences and factors that might affect their derivation and computation in bilinguals. About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Languages (ISSN 2226-471X) is now in its eighth year since its inception in 2015. It is an Open Access journal which seeks to stimulate debates on key issues in languages and linguistics. We welcome papers at the cutting edge of different fields, ranging from applied linguistics to descriptive and theoretical linguistics. Submissions may consist of research articles and critical reviews as well as proposals for Special Issues where multi-disciplinary approaches and different perspectives on current issues are explored. We invite you to consider Languages as a forum for sharing your work.
