Determining the Scope, Nature and Causes of Attrition in Adult L1 Grammars

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue seeks to bring together both conceptual and methodological discussions, as well as showcase new empirical data on L1 attrition among late-sequential bilinguals. The aim is to further illustrate and explore the scope of attrition in adult L1 grammars, and better determine the nature and underlying causes of this phenomenon. We request that, prior to submitting a manuscript, interested authors initially submit a proposed title and an abstract of 400–600 words summarising their intended contribution. Please send these to the (lewis.baker@tu-braunschweig.de) or to the Languages Editorial Office (languages@mdpi.com). Abstracts will be reviewed by the for the purposes of ensuring proper fit within the scope of the special issue. Full manuscripts will undergo a double-blind peer review.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Languages (ISSN 2226-471X) is now in its eighth year since its inception in 2015. It is an Open Access journal which seeks to stimulate debates on key issues in languages and linguistics. We welcome papers at the cutting edge of different fields, ranging from applied linguistics to descriptive and theoretical linguistics. Submissions may consist of research articles and critical reviews as well as proposals for Special Issues where multi-disciplinary approaches and different perspectives on current issues are explored. We invite you to consider Languages as a forum for sharing your work.
