Key Aspects of 21st Century Informal Interactions: Socio-Pragmatic and Formal Features

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue is devoted to research on the key aspects of present-day informal interactions, from different perspectives, applying different methodologies and within different theoretical frameworks. In short, we welcome a wide range of (relevant) topics, which may include (but are not limited to):

- (socio-)pragmatic, morpho-syntactic and semantic features of present-day informal interactions (e.g., discourse markers, terms of address, intensifiers, taboo words, etc.)
- particularities of 21st century language use
- phenomena of recent language change
- the language of social media and its influence on informal conversations in general
- consequences of increasing language contact
- the role of youth languages in (recent) language change
- (recent) processes of grammaticalization in spoken language (e.g., the fuzzy boundaries between vocatives and discourse markers)

We especially encourage linguists working on Romance languages to submit their work, but relevant papers on all other languages are welcome as well.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Languages (ISSN 2226-471X) is now in its eighth year since its inception in 2015. It is an Open Access journal which seeks to stimulate debates on key issues in languages and linguistics. We welcome papers at the cutting edge of different fields, ranging from applied linguistics to descriptive and theoretical linguistics. Submissions may consist of research articles and critical reviews as well as proposals for Special Issues where multi-disciplinary approaches and different perspectives on current issues are explored. We invite you to consider Languages as a forum for sharing your work.
