Shifting Borders: Spanish Morphosyntax in Contact Zones

Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue is to showcase state-of-the-art studies on Spanish Morphosyntax in Contact Zones from a theoretical and empirical perspective. This volume will examine whether and how language contact underlies, and allows us to account for, the morphosyntactic dynamics that Spanish in contact with other languages has undergone and is in the process of undergoing. In other words, we address the diachronic, the synchronic, and the potential contact-induced language change which characterizes the morphosyntax of the different varieties of contact-Spanish. We aim at putting together analyses and descriptions of understudied varieties, as well as well-studied varieties. We particularly encourage contributions dealing with crosslinguistic influence, language dominance, code-switching, or contact-induced direct, indirect, or 'latent' language change; etc. [...]

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Languages (ISSN 2226-471X) is now in its eighth year since its inception in 2015. It is an Open Access journal which seeks to stimulate debates on key issues in languages and linguistics. We welcome papers at the cutting edge of different fields, ranging from applied linguistics to descriptive and theoretical linguistics. Submissions may consist of research articles and critical reviews as well as proposals for Special Issues where multi-disciplinary approaches and different perspectives on current issues are explored. We invite you to consider Languages as a forum for sharing your work.
