

Special Issue

Land Law and Policy

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue will concentrate on private law aspects of land law. As well as doctrinal, theoretical, and socio-legal methods, different approaches and methods are invited. Contributions are encouraged in the areas of (but not limited to) strata title and leasehold reform, land registration, family property, mortgages and mortgage regulation, property development, and the environment. Articles which have a jurisdiction other than England and Wales as their focus or which adopt a comparative analysis are welcomed.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Laws is an international, open access journal featuring rigorous scholarship on critical developments in governance, courts, agencies, and social order. Analysis and synthesis, theory and practice, and empirical and doctrinal work have appeared in the journal; contributions that bridge these traditional boundaries are particularly welcome. The social sciences and humanities generate insights both from and for the legal system. While theory grounds Laws in a timeless dialogue shaped by traditions of inquiry, legal practice ensures that scholars are addressing pressing problems. Both normative and positive scholarship can aid policymakers, judges, and agency officials. Laws brings together the work of theorists and practitioners, and a diverse range of empirical researchers, to promote the progress of foundational legal norms.
