Understanding and Overcoming Barriers to Access to Justice in the Modern Era

Message from the Guest Editors

Welcome to this Special Issue of Laws, “Understanding and Overcoming Barriers to Access to Justice in the Modern Era”. The importance of access to justice cannot be overstated. Access to justice enables people to have their voices heard and to exercise their legal rights enshrined in constitutions, statutes, common law, or international instruments. Access to justice is an indispensable factor in promoting empowerment, securing access to equal human dignity, and achieving social and economic development. This Special Issue will outline the importance of access to justice and some international efforts in progress aimed at ensuring that everyone has effective access to justice. It will also explore some of the most significant factors that can impact access to justice. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to): access to justice, the use of artificial intelligence, disability, national security and anti-terrorism, global health crises, corruption, financial resources, and immigration law. We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Laws is an international, open access journal featuring rigorous scholarship on critical developments in governance, courts, agencies, and social order. Analysis and synthesis, theory and practice, and empirical and doctrinal work have appeared in the journal; contributions that bridge these traditional boundaries are particularly welcome. The social sciences and humanities generate insights both from and for the legal system. While theory grounds Laws in a timeless dialogue shaped by traditions of inquiry, legal practice ensures that scholars are addressing pressing problems. Both normative and positive scholarship can aid policymakers, judges, and agency officials. Laws brings together the work of theorists and practitioners, and a diverse range of empirical researchers, to promote the progress of foundational legal norms.
