Message from the Guest Editor

This issue will focus on adaptation strategies for the extremes: high and low temperatures, high and low pressures, and high salinity. We are inviting researchers to contribute original research and review articles that will further expand our knowledge of microbial (Archaea, Bacteria, or Eukaryotic) adaptation, from the organismal level to the protein level. Potential topics include, but are not limited to the following:

- Metagenomic analysis of microbial populations from extreme environments
- Analysis of interacting microbial populations: symbiosis, mutualism, commensalism, parasitism
- Intracellular signaling or cell-to-cell communications affected by extreme living environments
- Protein or biomolecule adaptations that help cells survive and thrive in their extreme environments
- Metabolic pathways that are required for survival or to improve survivability in extreme environments

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Life (ISSN 2075-1729) is an international, peer-reviewed open access journal that publishes scientific studies related to fundamental themes in life sciences. Some papers are published individually, while others are submitted for inclusion in special issues with guest editors. You are invited to contribute a research article, essay, or a review to be considered for publication.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges \(APC\) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE \(Web of Science\), PubMed, PMC, CAPus / SciFinder, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Biology) / CiteScore - Q2 (Paleontology)
