New Insights into Pediatric Cardiology

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to provide a rich mix of original papers, reviews, and case reports on many aspects of understanding, managing, and preventing cardiovascular disease in childhood. Primary care in pediatric cardiology must be concerned with preventing heart disease and detecting existing conditions early. In addition, pediatricians must maintain the vigilance of 'healthy' children to control cardiovascular risk in adulthood. With these goals in mind, the potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- pediatric cardiology;
- congenital heart disease;
- echocardiography;
- congestive heart failure;
- ventricular septal defect;
- pulmonary stenosis;
- coarctation of the aorta;
- atrial septal defect;
- pulmonary hypertension;
- arterial hypertension;
- syncope;
- arrhythmias;
- cardiac transplantation;
- cardiomyopathy;
- pediatric interventional cardiology;
- children;
- newborn;
- cardiac surgery, and family practice for congenital heart disease.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Life (ISSN 2075-1729) is an international, peer-reviewed open access journal that publishes scientific studies related to fundamental themes in life sciences. Some papers are published individually, while others are submitted for inclusion in special issues with guest editors. You are invited to contribute a research article, essay, or a review to be considered for publication.
