

Special Issue

Brain Disease Diagnosis and Image Recognition

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to showcase cutting-edge research at the nexus of AI, neuroimaging, and clinical neuroscience. We invite contributions that leverage advanced algorithms (e.g., convolutional neural networks, transformers, and graph-based models) to enhance image reconstruction, feature extraction, and diagnostic accuracy in brain imaging.

We welcome original research articles, reviews, and case studies that advance the theoretical foundations or practical applications of AI in brain disease diagnosis. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to the following:

- AI-driven MRI/CT/PET reconstruction and artifact correction;
- Automated lesion detection and segmentation in brain scans;
- Multimodal fusion of structural, functional, and molecular imaging data;
- Early prediction of neurodegenerative diseases using longitudinal imaging;
- Generative models for synthetic data augmentation;
- Edge computing and lightweight models for point-of-care diagnostics;
- Ethical AI frameworks for clinical deployment;
- Benchmarking datasets and reproducibility in neuroimaging AI.
