Updates in Pancreas and Colorectal Adenocarcinoma

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue “Updates in Pancreas and Colorectal Adenocarcinoma” aims to consolidate current knowledge and recent advancements related to these malignancies.

Topics of interest include, but are not limited to the following:

Molecular mechanisms and biomarkers: Exploration of molecular pathways involved in the onset and progression of these carcinomas, and identification of novel biomarkers for prognosis and disease monitoring.

Imaging techniques: Advances in imaging modalities such as endoscopic ultrasound (EUS), magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), and computed tomography (CT) that enhance diagnosis accuracy and treatment planning.

Therapeutic interventions: Development and evaluation of endoscopic or minimally invasive procedures that improve patient outcomes and reduce treatment-related morbidity.

Gut microbiota: Investigation of the role of gut microbiota in disease development and progression, and potential therapeutic implications of microbiome modulation.

Artificial intelligence and machine learning: Application of AI and machine learning algorithms to predict disease severity, support clinical decision-making, and personalize treatment strategies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Life (ISSN 2075-1729) is an international, peer-reviewed open access journal that publishes scientific studies related to fundamental themes in life sciences. Some papers are published individually, while others are submitted for inclusion in special issues with guest editors. You are invited to contribute a research article, essay, or a review to be considered for publication.

Editor-in-Chief
