

Special Issue

Application of Sensing Measurement in Machining

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue seeks original research papers focusing on advances in all facets of online/offline machining diagnostics and monitoring based on sensors measurements. We welcome papers that offer new research approaches, methodologies, sights and scientific directions in the abovementioned topics. We hope that this Special Issue will be useful and informative to seasoned scientists, inexperienced scientist and practitioners.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Machines is an international, peer reviewed journal on machinery and engineering. It publishes research articles, reviews and communications.

Our aim is to encourage scientists to publish their experimental and theoretical results in as much detail as possible. There is no restriction on the length of the papers. Full experimental and/or methodical details must be provided.

There are, in addition, unique features of this journal: Manuscripts regarding research proposals and research ideas will be particularly welcomed; Electronic files or software regarding the full details of the calculation and experimental procedure - if unable to be published in a normal way can be deposited as supplementary material.

Editor-in-Chief

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), Inspec, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Mechanical) / CiteScore - Q1 (Control and Optimization)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 17.6 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.7 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2025).
