

Special Issue

Biomaterials and Surface Science

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will present original high-quality research papers covering biomaterials and surface science as well as comprehensive reviews addressing relevant state-of-the-art research on biomaterials and surface science, with suitable practical applications. Topics of interest for this issue include, but are not limited to:

- Characterization of biomaterials;
- Implant devices;
- Surface treatment of metallic materials;
- Wear and corrosion of metallic materials.

We are inviting you to submit a manuscript for this Special Issue. Full papers, communications, and reviews are all welcome.
