Biomaterials in Periodontology and Implantology: New Frontiers and Clinical Challenges

Message from the Guest Editor

The fields of periodontology and implantology are at the forefront of transformative changes in dental medicine. This Special Issue, "Biomaterials in Periodontology and Implantology: New Frontiers and Clinical Challenges", aims to highlight the latest advancements and breakthrough research that are shaping the future of dental care. We invite the community of researchers to contribute with original studies, reviews and clinical trials that explore innovative techniques, emerging technologies and novel therapeutic approaches. This Special Issue seeks to address the pressing clinical challenges, offering new insights and solutions that will enhance patient-centered outcomes and redefine best practices. Join us in sharing your expertise and pioneering discoveries to inspire and inform the global dental community.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Materials (ISSN 1996-1944) was launched in 2008. The journal covers twenty-five comprehensive topics: biomaterials, energy materials, advanced composites, advanced materials characterization, porous materials, manufacturing processes and systems, advanced nanomaterials and nanotechnology, smart materials, thin films and interfaces, catalytic materials, carbon materials, materials chemistry, materials physics, optics and photonics, corrosion, construction and building materials, materials simulation and design, electronic materials, advanced and functional ceramics and glasses, metals and alloys, soft matter, polymeric materials, quantum materials, mechanics of materials, green materials, general. Materials provides a unique opportunity to contribute high quality articles and to take advantage of its large readership.
