

Special Issue

Advances in Mathematical Methods, Machine Learning and Deep Learning Based Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue invites papers on new and innovative proposals in computer science and education. It is a mechanism for advancing and capturing the current trends in computer science and education in schools worldwide through the use of current research studies in the field. We welcome quantitative, qualitative, mixed methods, and action research methodologies. Our goal is to integrate different methodologies for computer science and education and assess how they are evaluated. This could also be related to other disciplines to highlight how current teachers (and students) can improve on what they are already implementing in classrooms.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The journal Mathematics publishes high-quality, refereed papers that treat both pure and applied mathematics. The journal highlights articles devoted to the mathematical treatment of questions arising in physics, chemistry, biology, statistics, finance, computer science, engineering and sociology, particularly those that stress analytical/algebraic aspects and novel problems and their solutions. One of the missions of the journal is to serve mathematicians and scientists through the prompt publication of significant advances in any branch of science and technology, and to provide a forum for the discussion of new scientific developments.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), RePEc, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Mathematics) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Mathematics)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 18.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.4 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
