

Special Issue

Mathematical Methods and Applications for Cryptography, Network and IoMT Security

Message from the Guest Editor

The rapid advancement of digital technologies has introduced unprecedented challenges in securing data, networks, and Internet of Things (IoT) environments. At the same time, the intersection of advanced cryptographic techniques, secure networking, and the Internet of Medical Things (IoMT) is revolutionizing the cybersecurity, particularly in healthcare, where security breaches can have life-threatening consequences. To address these risks, cryptography, network security protocols, and IoMT security frameworks play a critical role. This Special Issue seeks to bring together state-of-the-art research and practical solutions that address emerging trends, vulnerabilities, and innovations across these domains.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The journal Mathematics publishes high-quality, refereed papers that treat both pure and applied mathematics. The journal highlights articles devoted to the mathematical treatment of questions arising in physics, chemistry, biology, statistics, finance, computer science, engineering and sociology, particularly those that stress analytical/algebraic aspects and novel problems and their solutions. One of the missions of the journal is to serve mathematicians and scientists through the prompt publication of significant advances in any branch of science and technology, and to provide a forum for the discussion of new scientific developments.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), RePEc, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Mathematics) / CiteScore - Q1 (General Mathematics)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 17.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2026).
