

Special Issue

Spinal Tumors: 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

Following the successful first edition of the Special Issue entitled “Spinal Tumors” in Medicina, we are pleased to announce a second Special Issue dedicated to spinal tumors. This Special Issue will focus on the surgical management of spinal metastasis and postoperative quality of life. This Special Issue invites contributions addressing the following topics:

- Surgical techniques for spinal metastases: decompression, separation surgery, stabilization, en bloc resection, and minimally invasive approaches;
- Intraoperative neurophysiological monitoring for metastatic spinal tumor surgery;
- Integration of surgery, radiotherapy, stereotactic radiosurgery (SRS/SBRT), and systemic oncological treatments;
- Preoperative optimization and perioperative management in spinal metastasis surgery;
- Prognostic factors for survival, neurological outcomes, and functional recovery;
- Quality of life, functional independence, and patient-reported outcome measures (PROMs) after spinal tumor surgery;
- Rehabilitation and long-term care following surgery for spinal tumors;
- Innovations and emerging technologies in surgical management.
