

medical sciences

Dear colleagues,

It is our pleasure to announce the winners of the 2020 Medical Sciences Travel Award, which is sponsored by the open access journal Medical Sciences. The award has been granted to Dr. Elisa Ramos-Sevillano and MD. Abdul Hai Siddique.

Dr. Elisa Ramos-Sevillano is a Postdoctoral Research Scientist at Centre for Inflammation and Tissue Repair, University College of London, London, UK. Her research is primarily focused in the fields of molecular microbiology and infection biology. MD. Abdul Hai Siddique is a Postdoctoral Fellow at Department of Cardiovascular Medicine, Tohoku University, Seiryomachi, Japan. His primary research interest is in conserving fundamental research-based good educational practice within the framework of sustainable development in Science and Technology.

2020 MEDICAL SCIENCES TRAVEL AWARD

WINNERS

We would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude to all applicants for their interest in this competition as well as to our Evaluation Committee for their incredible involvement in this difficult task. For this award, we evaluated many impressive candidates from all over the globe, and selecting two winners among them was indeed very challenging. We would like to thank all of the applicants for what was, collectively, a range of diverse and fascinating research topics, and congratulate the winners on their accomplishments.

Kind regards,
Medical Sciences Editorial Office

