

Special Issue

Characterization, Properties and Applications of Natural Products-2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

Following a very successful first run, we are pleased to announce the launch of a second edition of the Special Issue "Characterization, Properties and Applications of Natural Products." Natural products have always been, and continue to be, an unending source of active biomolecules that may be applied in food, therapy, cosmetics, agriculture, and other areas. This issue welcomes research papers and reviews that evaluate the composition, properties, and applications of these products. Although we especially welcome borderline studies in which both the chemical characterization and activity of natural products are reported, work in any related field is welcome.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to molecular chemistry, now in its 29th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts, and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on all major fields of molecular chemistry and multidisciplinary topics bridging chemistry with biology, physics, and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting-edge fields in all of these areas.
