Bioactive Components in Fruits and Vegetables: Biosynthesis and Metabolism

Message from the Guest Editor

Fruits and vegetables play important roles in our daily life, which provide many nutritive components. It is critical to explore the biosynthesis and metabolism of important nutrition and secondary metabolites in fruits and vegetables, which will provide a scientific theoretical basis for quality regulation and genetic improvement. Original research on the variation and regulation mechanism of bioactive components, such as anthocyanin, vitamin C, sugar, acid, and minerals during development and postharvest stages, are welcomed

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Reaxys, CaPlus / SciFinder, MarinLit, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Organic Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
