

Special Issue

Mass Spectrometry in Biomarkers Discovery

Message from the Guest Editors

Mass spectrometry has become a powerful analytical tool in biomarker discovery, providing in-depth insights into the pathologies of disease onset and biomonitoring research. Disease biomarkers and exposure biomarkers offer the opportunity for diagnosing diseases and investigating the prevalence of human exposure and adverse health effects from harmful chemicals. This Special Issue will include original research, short communications, and reviews on developing advanced MS-based analytical strategies to discover individual or combinations of biomarkers that can be used to diagnose diseases.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Reaxys, CaPlus / SciFinder, MarinLit, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Organic Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
