Bioactive Molecules Targeting Inflammation Processes in Related Diseases

Message from the Guest Editor

The editorial board of Molecules invites you to submit an article to a Special Issue entitled "Bioactive Molecules Targeting Inflammation Processes in Related Diseases". This Special Issue will accept reviews or original research papers focused on in vivo or in vitro evaluation of anti-inflammatory bioactive molecules of natural origin that could be used as potential therapeutic agents in controlling the inflammatory processes encountered in various chronic diseases. We look forward to receiving your contributions. This Special Issue invites researchers to submit original research or review articles related to this topic. Molecules is indexed by the Science Citation Index Expanded (Web of Science), MEDLINE (PubMed) and other databases, and has an Impact Factor of 4.412 (2020).

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to molecular chemistry, now in its 29th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts, and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on all major fields of molecular chemistry and multidisciplinary topics bridging chemistry with biology, physics, and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting-edge fields in all of these areas.
