

Special Issue

Medicinal Chemistry in Europe III

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on “Medicinal Chemistry in Europe III” of the journal Molecules deals with the structure–activity relationship of all the natural molecules of interest in a wide range of areas (microbiology, neurobiology, pharmacology, immunology, cancerology, toxicology, etc.), from basic research to more applied clinical developments. Studies on molecules of a varied nature (i.e., peptides/proteins and organic compounds), size, and functions—as well as molecular complexes—will be considered for publication in the Special Issue. Submissions of manuscripts in the various fields of research and from all over the world are strongly encouraged.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to molecular chemistry, now in its 30th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts, and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on all major fields of molecular chemistry and multidisciplinary topics bridging chemistry with biology, physics, and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting-edge fields in all of these areas.
