Interesting Applications of Plant Extracts in Food

Message from the Guest Editor

For many centuries, fruits and vegetables have played a very important role in the human diet due to their content of vitamins, minerals, and bioactive compounds. With the development of science, more concentrated forms of these substances, such as extracts, have come to be seen as having special significance for food and human nutrition. In this Special Issue, there is space for articles on extracts' extraction (especially novel and green extraction methods) and their use as phenolic and antioxidant compounds in various conventional and novel food groups. We welcome authors of original reports as well as review articles.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to molecular chemistry, now in its 29th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts, and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on all major fields of molecular chemistry and multidisciplinary topics bridging chemistry with biology, physics, and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting-edge fields in all of these areas.

Editor-in-Chief

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Reaxys, CaPlus / SciFinder, MarInLit, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Organic Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.6 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
