

Special Issue

Environmental Analysis of Organic Pollutants

Message from the Guest Editor

In recent decades, the environmental impact of organic pollutants, especially persistent and emerging organic pollutants, has attracted extensive attention, and related research has developed rapidly. Research in organic pollutants is a popular topic in the environmental field. Industrial production and other human activities emit a large number of organic pollutants, which are widely distributed in air, water, sediment, soil, and other environmental media. A series of research projects has been carried out on the development of analytical methods for organic pollutants, the distribution of environmental media, environmental concentration, environmental fate, the exploration of new pollutants, and the non-target analysis of organic pollutants. The aim of this Special Issue is to collect original research papers and review articles focused on the abovementioned aspects of organic environmental pollutants.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.
