

Special Issue

Green and Sustainable Solvents III

Message from the Guest Editor

Green solvents are a topic of important interest among both the scientific research community and the chemical industry. In recent years, toxic solvents have had a huge impact on pollution, energy usage, and contributions to air quality and climate change. This Special Issue, "Green and Sustainable Solvents III", aims to collect and publish recent advances in this interdisciplinary area. Research articles as well as reviews dealing with innovative techniques, alternative solvents, byproduct valorization, and new routes for green solvents toward industrial applications are of interest. Manuscripts on how green solvents contribute to the development of natural products research are welcome. Molecules is very pleased to host this Special Issue and invites scientists to submit their original contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.
