Measurement of Antioxidant Activity: Advances and Perspectives

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to bring together recent research and experience on measurement of antioxidant activity of synthetic and natural compounds and bio-based ingredients. We invite researchers to contribute original research and review articles on recent advances and applications in this field of antioxidant research that is receiving so much attention in the food, pharmaceutical, and biological sciences.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.

Editor-in-Chief
