

Topical Collection

Feature Review Papers in Mental Health Nursing Section

Message from the Collection Editors

By launching this Topical Collection, we celebrate and promote high-quality mental health nursing-related reviews that have been conducted systematically. We are particularly interested in systematic reviews of intervention studies that follow recognised systematic review guidelines, such as Cochrane and JBI. Other review types will be considered, along with reviews of systematic reviews, if they are robust and make a useful contribution to the mental health nursing evidence base. We look forward to receiving your review papers. Please feel free to contact the if you have any doubts that your review would be appropriate for this Topical Collection.
