Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Good nutrition, combined with a physically active lifestyle, plays a central role in the management of type 1 diabetes at all ages. This Special Issue of Nutrients, entitled “Diet and Exercise in Type 1 Diabetes”, welcomes the submission of manuscripts either describing original research or high quality systematic reviews and meta-analyses focusing on the role of nutrition on type 1 diabetes management and control. Manuscripts should cover the effects of nutrients, foods, and/or dietary patterns in relation to people living with type 1 diabetes. We also encourage submissions on nutrition and dietary strategies for exercise management and performance in type 1 diabetes.
