Bioactive Ingredients in Plants Related to Human Health—2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

Based on the success of first volume of special issue Bioactive Ingredients in Plants Related to Human Health (https://www.mdpi.com/journal/nutrients/special_issues/UE42WUB1A1), We hereby announce Bioactive Ingredients in Plants Related to Human Health—2nd Edition. This Special Issue explores the impact of natural products, originating from plants, on human wellness.

Plants contain secondary metabolites that are very specific and represent a fascinating library of bioactive compounds with a broad activity in the context of human health. Nutrients, supplements, and herbal bioactive compounds have shown promise as complementary tools in the treatment and prevention of chronic non-communicable diseases (NCDs), such as obesity, type II diabetes, cancer, cardiovascular diseases, and neurodegenerative diseases.

Consistent with the journal Nutrients, we welcome original research articles, reviews, and commentaries that aim to elucidate the role of nutrients, supplements, and herbal compounds in counteracting pathogenetic factors inducing NCDs, with a special emphasis on disease prevention.
