

Special Issue

Nutritional Intervention for Pediatric Allergy and Asthma

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to highlight recent progress and current issues related to nutritional interventions that prevent and treat pediatric allergy and asthma. We are pleased to invite you to contribute. Articles that shed light on mechanisms of action, windows of opportunity, specific populations to target, and interaction between nutritional components are welcome. Authors are also welcome to submit research and reviews that highlight beneficial supplements and diets as well as food to avoid.
