

Special Issue

Unsaturated Fatty Acids, Cellular Metabolism and Metabolic Diseases

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to update knowledge on the effects of unsaturated fatty acids on cellular metabolism. Potential topics may include but are not limited to the role of monounsaturated or polyunsaturated fatty acids in the regulation of mitochondrial function, oxidative stress, endoplasmic reticulum stress, and inflammatory pathways. Comparative studies on the effects of saturated, monounsaturated, and polyunsaturated (omega-3 and omega-6) fatty acids on cellular metabolism, oxidative stress, and inflammatory pathway are also welcome. The submission is encouraged of studies aiming to evaluate the effect of unsaturated fatty acids using cellular culture as well as experimental animal models and human trials. Understanding cellular metabolism regulation by unsaturated fatty acids will be useful to generate new knowledge on their role in the etiopathogenesis and/or protection toward metabolic and chronic diseases.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Nutrients is an on-line open access journal that was first published in 2009. Nutrients adheres to rigorous peer-review and editorial processes and publishes only high quality manuscripts that address important issues related to the impacts of nutrients on human health. The Impact Factor of Nutrients has risen rapidly since its establishment and it is now ranked in the first quartile of journals publishing in the field of nutrition and dietetics research.
