Recent Advances in the Research of Drug Delivery System: Materials, Preparation Methods, and Mechanisms

Message from the Guest Editor

Drug delivery systems are designed to transport medications to the appropriate position in the body, reducing the severity of side effects and enhancing their efficacy. Therefore, they have been extensively implemented in the field of medicine. With the development of science and technology, a growing number of medications have emerged, and the traditional drug delivery systems are inadequate in meeting the demands of health care. The development of new drug delivery systems has become a research hotspot. This Special Issue covers the progress in all areas of drug delivery systems or reviews, including their materials, preparation methods, mechanisms, and their novel applications in the prevention of different diseases and health care.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Because of your expertise in the field of drug sciences, I kindly invite you to consider publishing your current work, in the form of a research article or a review, in the open access electronic journal Pharmaceuticals. Pharmaceuticals is characterized by an active editorial board and a dynamic editorial staff. Manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a final decision is provided to authors within 4–6 weeks after submission. Papers are published on the web immediately after acceptance. For details on the submission process or any other matter, please do not hesitate to contact us. We hope to handle your contribution to Pharmaceuticals soon.
