Fluorescent Probes as a Tool in Diagnostic and Drug Delivery

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to explore the innovative applications of fluorescent probes in the fields of diagnostics and drug delivery, highlighting recent advancements and emerging technologies as well as their impact on biomedical research and clinical practice.

Fluorescent probes have become indispensable tools in modern diagnostics, offering high sensitivity and specificity for detecting and visualizing biological molecules and processes. Their application in imaging techniques, biosensing, and molecular tracking has revolutionized our ability to diagnose diseases at early stages and understand complex biological systems. This Special Issue aims to provide a comprehensive platform for sharing groundbreaking research and fostering collaboration among scientists in the fields of fluorescent probes, diagnostics, and drug delivery. We eagerly anticipate your valuable contributions that will advance knowledge and innovation in this exciting interdisciplinary area.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Pharmaceutics (ISSN 1999-4923) is an online open access journal on the science and technology of pharmaceutics and biopharmaceutics. The scientific community, the wider community and the general public have unlimited and free access to the content as soon as a paper is published; this open access to your research ensures your findings are shared with the widest possible audience. Please consider publishing your impressive work in this high quality journal. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Pharmacology and Pharmacy) / CiteScore - Q1 (Pharmaceutical Science)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 14.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 3.3 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
